Editor Speaks!

Just before this issue was heading off to print, we realized that a FACT (Fighting AIDS Continuously Together) fundraising event was scheduled towards the end of the month. Unfortunately we didn't have a date for you at this time, and we couldn't contact anyone (at least not at 3:45 am).

The event is Macy's Day, and it is a day where you can save money while shopping at Macy's while raising money for a worthy organization. FACT will be a participating organization in this event, and will be selling tickets in the area. If you are interested in doing some shopping (and who isn't!) while helping to raise money for FACT, please call them at their offices at 610-820-5519; or ask around at your favorite Valley Clubs for more information. Imagine shopping and raising money for a worthy cause at the same time ... who says you can't have your cake and eat it too!

On the Cover

A group of about twenty people from DIAMONZ bar, in Bethlehem, wave to the cheering crowds at the 1996 Allentown Saint Patrick's Day Parade. Although many onlookers may not have been aware of it, this was the first time that a gay/lesbian establishment had an organized float in the event. Many local "family" members also joined the crowd of spectators to cheer on the DIAMONZ gang from the sidelines. Shown are from left to right; Candy, Mary & Lenora.

④ A Look Back

1, 2, & 3:

Stonewall hosted its Annual Beach Party on Friday, March 22. The Hawaiian theme brought out many festive partiers, many of which were dressed in beach attire.

4, 5, & 6:

Members of the community were out to see the Diamonz float in the Allentown St. Patrick's Day Parade, held on Sunday, March 17. Even staff members from the "sister" bars were on hand to cheer the Diamonz crew as they passed by.

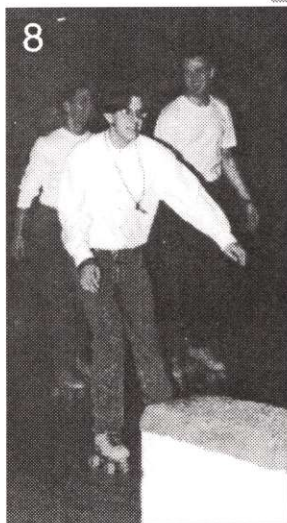

7 & 8:

The crowd was "spinning its wheels" at the 1st monthly skating party hosted by the League of Gay and Lesbian Voters. As their ad says, "There's something Queer About Tuesday!" Based on the nice crowd, it would appear to be true!

X-er-cise

The American Health magazine of June, 1995 features an article on the Psychological Benefits of Exercise. According to this article, the mind benefits as much from exercise as the body does. While exercise keeps the body fit and toned, the heart strong and the muscles clear of tension, research shows that regular workouts lift depression, banish stress and sharpen the mind. Regular physical activity also improves alertness, energy and mood. The article goes on to report that "even more important, long-term exercisers seem to possess an overall sense of well-being that extends into other areas of their life."

Creativity is yet another benefit. exercise psychologist Joan Gondola of New York City's Baruch College found that students who were regular exercisers scored significantly higher on a standard psychological test of creativity than non-exercisers.

Mental skills are also kept in shape when we keep in shape. Mental skills such as reaction time and short-term memory tend to decline with aging. research is showing that long-term exercise may very likely head off this decline (no pun intended).

One of the reasons that the cognitive skills in the elderly may be enhanced through regular exercise is because the exercise assures adequate blood-flow and oxygen to the brain and may slow the cell death that accompanies normal aging. We all know that exercise triggers the release of the powerful neurotransmitters in the brain. These potent chemicals are known to boost alertness. Exercise acts as a natural Prozac which means it boosts the brain levels of the neurotransmitters that elevate mood. According to the article research, depressed people have abnormally low levels of these chemicals. Combining exercise and antidepressants can help these people correct the physiological imbalance of their body's chemistry.

So ... how much is enough? What about those people who seem addicted to exercising? Perhaps they are just that. There are people who become so dependent on the psychological and physical benefits that they are considered addicted. Some of the signs to look at to evaluate your level of dependence:

1. Do you feel compelled to exercise daily, in spite of an injury or an illness?
2. Do you organize your life around exercise?
3. Do you feel guilty or get irritable when you do not exercise for a few days?
4. Do you experience depression, sleep disturbance or a general loss of interest in life when you're forced to quit exercising for more than a week?

Many exercise addicts are people who are striving for perfection (as opposed to excellence). They strive for it through their body because they believe they've failed to achieve it in other areas of their life. researchers at the University of Arizona found "parallels between the personalities of compulsive male runners and anorexic women. Both had unrealistically high expectations of themselves, an unusual ability to deny pain, and higher levels of repressed anger."

Compulsive behavior is fed by obsessive thoughts which are critical and condemnatory. The thoughts push the person into behavior to prove the thoughts are not accurate. The person needs to see some tangible evidence that they can achieve, that they can "make it" in some area. And their body is the vehicle they use for evidence. Their perfectionistic thoughts are the gear shift that sets in motion the mind's wheels. The exercise is the body's engine. The body's appearance is the year, make and model of the vehicle. What are you driving?!

BOOK REVIEW
Funny Boy, by Shyam Selvadurai.
 New York:
 William Morrow &
 Company, Inc.,
 1996. $23.00

Funny Boy is the first novel by Shyam Selvadurai, a new gay writer from Sri Lanka who lives in Canada. As with almost all first novels, it is a very thinly disguised autobiography; and it is not so much a work of art as it is an artfully made work of private narration and confession.

The title Funny Boy is something we can relate to, that is, "funny" meaning someone who is different. The book begins with memories of when the author was about seven years old, and used to be the leader in various theatrical, make-believe games played with the girls. His dressing up as a bride for a mock-wedding, and his naive dreams of romance quickly become shattered, as he finally discovers that he is not really a part of the girls' world, nor does he fit into the boys' world of cricket. The real world of what a hetero-sexual wedding actually means becomes clear in the following chapter, when an Aunt must break off her romance with her true love in order to marry a man deemed acceptable by her family for an arranged marriage.

As the narrative continues, we learn more of the ethnic and racial conflicts between the Tamils and the Sinhalese in Sri Lanka, told through the two examples of a journalist (a family friend and former lover of the author's mother) being killed; and an employee in his father's hotel (the son of his best friend during childhood) who has dangerous political associations.

The last two chapters of the book are when the author is in his mid-teens. He is sent to a very rigid, private boys' school by his family in order to "get straight," and it is there that he has his first sexual experiences with one of his fellow classmates. The final chapter is written as a brief selection of diary entries, which relate increasing social tension, the burning of his family's home and their escape; the murder of his grandparents; and their final decision to emigrate to Canada as refugees in 1983.

The book is well structured, and Selvadurai has a fine sense of rhythm in his prose. Sometimes his vocabulary sounds like someone who has read too many books, and there are some clichéd expressions; but again, this is a first novel, and he is still in the process of finding his own voice. What I miss is a sense of landscape and geography, as well as concrete information on just who the Tamils and Sinhalese are. I am, like most Americans, ignorant of Sri Lanka, its culture, its people, and its politics. I would wish to have found out more of this from reading this novel.

The combination of a gay "coming-out" story with the elements of cross-cultural and multi-ethnic/racial conflicts might almost make this an example of formulaic, middle-brow post-modernism. Certainly, similar novels have appeared during the past few years with these familiar elements, which seem to be all too comfortably acceptable to contemporary critics and readers. However, Shyam Selvadurai has a very elegant, emotionally sensitive, and discretely detailed sense of style. Most importantly, he actually has something to say, apart from being merely entertaining.

This is not a great novel, but it is nonetheless a rewarding experience. At 305 pages, it can easily be read in two brief, leisurely sittings. There is much that is universal in being gay, learning of one's difference, and accepting what and who one is. Shyam Selvadurai's writing has a gentleness and compassion that is not only refreshing, but needed in our own too brittle, Western society. This book holds much promise for a great literary career, and I can only hope that as he matures

'AMERICA'S PRINTER' REFUSES TO PRINT BROCHURE PROMOTING HOMOSEXUALITY: THE SECRET A CHILD DARE NOT TELL

SAN RAFAEL, Calif., Feb.. 29, 1996

Saying that it "doesn't believe in homosexuality," U. S. Press, which bills itself as 'America's Color Printer,' has refused to print a brochure promoting the book Homosexuality: The Secret A Child Dare Not Tell. The decision was relayed to the book's publisher, Rafael Press, by George Limbocker, an account representative for the Valdosta, Georgia-based printing concern. Mr. Limbocker said the decision was made after conferring with the owners of U. S. Press.

"It is against our company policy," Mr. Limbocker said. "We are Christians. We don't believe in homosexuality. We don't print nude bodies or explicit sex." (Neither the book, nor its promotional materials contain nude bodies or explicit sex. In fact, the book's cover, which is featured on the brochure, is a reproduction of Mary Cassatt's painting, "Two Children at the Seashore," from the National Gallery of Art. Both of the little girls in the painting are fully clothed in dresses and pinafores.)

Homosexuality: The Secret A Child Dare Not Tell is written by Mary Ann Cantwell, a 74-year-old mother of ten children and a former teacher of special education. Written primarily for parents of young children, the book is based on Mary Ann's early parenting relationship with her gay son, Mike, now 40. It tells of her poignant inner journey from pain and guilt to understanding and activism. Part memoir, part documentation of the secret shame that gay children frequently carry in the family, Homosexuality: The Secret A Child Dare Not Tell sets forth a startling thesis: most children know from a very early age - sometimes as young as five or six - that they are somehow different in their sexual orientation. The book encourages parents to sensitively "tune in" to the nuances of their child's behavior and to lovingly and openly respond to their child's early development around sexual orientation.

Mary Griffith, perhaps America's best known parent of a gay child (she is the mother of Bobby Griffith, the tragic subject of the best selling Prayers for Bobby from HarperSanFrancisco), calls Homosexuality: The Secret A Child Dare Not Tell, "a wake-up call to parents."

"Most of the time, parents think homosexuality happens overnight, and that their son or daughter can make a choice in the matter. Mary Ann's book brings parents and teachers back to the realization that homosexuality is usually a natural unfolding that occurs during the early years of childhood," Mary Griffith said.

AboveGround encourages its readers to make their feelings known about this matter. You can register your protest in the following ways:

GET THE VOTER'S GUIDE... AND VOTE !

By Liz Bradbury

The League of Gay and Lesbian Voters' Voter's Guides come out in the first week of April and will be available for free in Lehigh Valley locations. The Voter's Guide is a bipartisan publication with information on all candidates running for office in the State.

Each candidate received a survey from the League questioning their stand on Gay/Les/Bi and Aids related issues. The information from these surveys and additional information from the League's data base, including the voting record of incumbents on Gay/Les/Bi and Aids related issues, is detailed in the Guide.

The Voter's Guide is a valuable tool. Read the Guide carefully and make a list of the candidates running in your District. Take the list and your Voter's Guide directly into the voter's booth with you because sometimes it's hard to remember all the names and their political platforms. Voting along party lines won't work because this is the Primary and you only are voting within one party.

As you go into the polls there may be candidates outside campaigning for your last minute decision. Here is your chance to do some great lobbying work. March right up to them with your guide and look the candidate up. This way the candidate or the campaign worker will see the gay and lesbian vote in action. Even if they "forgot" to return the survey they won't forget that they surely lost your vote by not sending it in. Mark your calendar now - Primary Election April 23rd - and also plan to Meet the Candidates at our Voter's League fund raiser at the Monterey Cafe on Sunday April 21 from 3 to 6 pm. A strong attendance shows candidates we are a serious and organized constituency.

Voter's Guides will be available in the Lehigh Valley at the Stone-wall, Diamondz, the Book Rack (Emmaus), Drop Me A Line, Open Space Gallery, the Archive Shop (Easton) and at your local Gay friendly Churches and bookstores. Guides will also be available at the Monterey Cafe on April 21. If you would like more information about the Voter's Guide or the League of Gay and Lesbian Voter's call us at 610-432-5449.

Liz Bradbury is the Coordinator for the Lehigh Valley Chapter of the League of Gay and Lesbian Voters.

14 To Your Health

by Dr. John Cochran

moment's anxiety would last a lifetime.....

Thankfully, we usually adapt to life's stresses because many mechanisms are built into us for this purpose. They're as simple as shivering and sweating, and as elaborate as our immune system engulfing a cancer cell or bacterium; they are as dramatic as an adrenaline rush when confronting danger, or as ungraceful as gagging. They all say the same thing: Survive! Survive changes in the weather; survive bacterial invasion, survive pollution; survive emotional heartbreak, survive excitement; survive work; survive in the big city-and thrive!

Viewed from this perspective, symptoms such as fevers, chills, vomiting, fatigue, sneezing, pain, anxiety, anger, and others-although unpleasant-aren't bad, rather, they are signs that the body is struggling to regain health and balance.

OUR INNATE INTELLIGENCE

What does adaptation look like inside us? It's thousands of different chemicals being balanced every second, millions of cells dying every second, millions being born every second and billions of nerves firing messages every second. Yesterday's lunch is somehow turned into eye, muscle, heart, bone, skin, and blood; damaged tissues are being repaired; blood vessel linings are being smoothed; germs and tumors are being destroyed. All while we read a book or sleep or run a race.

THE WISDOM OF THE BODY

Is health merely feeling good? If you come down with a cold, a headache, a neck or back pain or some other condition today, were you really healthy yesterday? Of course not! Health is much more than our superficial feelings-it is physical, chemical, and emotional balance.

ADAPTATION

So many forms of stress threaten our balance: the bacteria, viri, pollen, mold, and fungi in the air; cancer cells, with their deranged genetic instructions that constantly arise within, pollution, and chemicals; cuts, bumps, and bruises; school, work, marriage, babies, bills, a mortgage-and we must adapt to them all. For if we did not.....a hot summer day would boil our brains; a winter night would freeze us solid; every inhalation would bring massive infection; tumors would overwhelm us; a small cut would drain all our blood. Without adaptation our hearts would continue pounding after a workout; alcohol and other drugs would never break down, and we'd stay intoxicated for life; brain chemicals would never deactivate: an adrenaline high or a Chiropractic refers to the body's organizational ability as its Innate Intelligence, or simply "Innate." Our Innate Intelligence organizes our body into a complicated, living, adapting, growing being- without it, each of us would be no more than a formless pile of chemicals worth only a few dollars. All or our lives, we are thinking and acting but at what point do our thoughts convert into action? In the same way, where does our Innate Intelligence touch our physical body? We don't know. It lies somewhere behind our DNA-our genetic "blueprint"-organizing the microscopic world of the cell and the macroscopic world of the entire body made up of thousands of billions of cells. Science has yet to develop the sensitivity to discover that powerful place deep within the human being where wisdom, direction, healing, and intelligence percolate up to our physical existence. It remains a mystery.

But mysteries have clues-and the body is no exception. Our Chiropractors recognize a part of the body that is especially intimate with our Innate: the central nervous system. That system includes the brain, spinal cord, and the billions of nerve fibers that emerge from them. The nervous system touches every nook and cranny of our bodies, and Innate uses this vast communications system to control, coordinate, and organize our billions of parts to create a living, adapting healthy being. This connection is vital, for true health, adaptation, balance, and harmony can emerge only when our Innate Intelligence can communicate with our body without interference or static. A complete break in that communication results in immediate death, a partial break results in a general deterioration of health-or "dis-ease"-wherein we are less alive, and less able to adjust to and cope with life's stresses.

This partial break or interference to our innate link is commonly caused by the vertebral subluxation complex (vsc), also known as spinal nerve stress.

Title: STEAM

Artist: East 17

Rating: 2 stars

It's not surprising that East 17 is England's latest "new kids on the block." Four young, tan, occasionally tattooed and usually shirtless men crooning would get most young girls' hearts to start a'beating! Just can't wait for that Tiger Beat pin-up either. But, will parents of America's teens allow them to listen to sinister lyrics such as "I'll Butter Your Toast If You Lick The Knife"? Will American dance-music lovers (usually gay men and 20-something girls) enjoy lyrics of innocence: "Don't Wanna Do Ya, Just Hold Ya Tight"? Is East 17 marketable, and is their music any Good? While the songs are not free-style, the vocal deliveries sound a bit too much like Stevie B or George LaMont ... not good! While I wouldn't mind seeing the four in certain "tight" positions, their vocal togetherness seems a bit off. If you need to oogle and aagle at their half-naked bodies, you may want to pick up a copy of Steam for the photos. Otherwise, the context of the disc is as slender and lanky as their bodies.

Title: POSITIVELY FABULOUS

Artist: Various

Rating: 3 stars

Tribal has been a staple label for DJ's since its inception in 1991. Tribal has offered such unforgettable club anthems as "X", "There Will Come A Day," and "I Won't Waste Your Time." (Well, they're unforgettable to DJ's and Klub Kidz.) Many artists crave a Tribal release for their record, knowing it will receive an instant buzz from the DJ Community. This has given the label worldwide muscle in dance music. Positiva is EMI UK's dance label. While being wildly successful overseas, where dance music is commonly Top 40, EMI has no interest in bringing Positiva state-side. That's where Tribal steps in. Tribal has licensed the Positiva catalog for US. release both as a 12" single and as this CD. Positively Fabulous may be your only opportunity to get last summer's anthems, "Sweetest Day In May" as well as Judy Cheek's "Respect" and "As Long As You're Good To Me" on disc. As a whole, however, this disc may disappoint the Tribal fan. It is more Pop/NRG oriented than Tribal's usual releases. If you picked up LaBouche or Ace Of Base, Positively Fabulous would be a nice compliment to your collection.

GOD SAVE THE QUEEN !!

The Stonewall Enigma Players will present their newest show, "God Save The Queen," starting on Thursday, April 18. Writer Jerry Schmidt will also direct this "spoof on the Royal Divorce." The production will feature Enigma Player veterans Tim Galgoci, Matthew Stitzer, James Mulcahy, Dusty Corners (a.k.a. Ellen Ritter), and Stephanie Burke. This is the sixth show for the Enigma Players, and it will take place in episodic format on four consecutive Thursdays starting at 11:30 PM. The Stonewall "Disco Theatre" is located at 28-30 North Tenth Street in Allentown. All four performances are free to the public (21 & over). For more information, please call (610) 432-0215.

DROP BY THE CCM CAFE

The Theatre Outlet's CCM Cafe (formerly Counter-Culture Mondays) continues with their Spring series every Monday night thru April 29.

CCM Cafe's are always on Monday, always at 8pm, always just $5, and always BYOB with gourmet coffee and fresh baked goods available. The Theatre Outlet is at 333 Court Street in the Phoenix Square Building in downtown Allentown.

And finally, another premiere. Award-winning New York/Stroudsburg playwright William Marley's newest play, COMING OUT (subtitled A Comedy In An Age Of Tragedy), will run May 9, 10, and 11 at 8pm. The play is directed by Rob Howell. There will be a special Preview Performance of COMING OUT on Wednesday, May 8 at 8pm as a benefit for FACT (Fighting AIDS Continuously Together) of the Lehigh Valley. Tickets for the 9, 10, and 11 performances are $10 and $5.

The Oxy-Morons (serious comedians), a local comedy troupe, have been keeping audiences in stitches since 1994. As of this writing, they are scheduled for another appearance at Open Space Gallery, a non-profit community arts center in downtown Allentown, PA.
After their last raucous performance at the Gallery, they are sure to pack the room for their next date scheduled on Saturday, April 27.
You may have seen them before, but you can never be sure what they will do next. The Oxy-Morons' show features a mixture of sketch material, songs and improvisation with lots of audience interaction.

22 The Pennsylvania Primary by Steve Black

On Tuesday, April 23rd, people across Pennsylvania will cast their votes in the 1996 Primary Election. Because Pennsylvania scheduled its primary late in the season, our votes really are irrelevant to the selection of the Republican and Democratic Presidential Candidates. Bill Clinton has been unchallenged for the Democratic Nomination, and Bob Dole has secured enough delegates in state primaries so far that he has a lock on the Republican Nomination. However, we as responsible citizens have a duty to show up at our local polling place and cast our ballots. There are other contested primaries where the votes of gay men and lesbians can influence the results, including those for State Row Offices, Congress, and State Representatives.

Even though the Presidential Primary is a foregone conclusion, let's review the records of Bill Clinton and Bob Dole.

The Dole Record:

- Voted to prohibit federal funds from being used to promote homosexuality.
- Voted cap funding for AIDS programs under the Ryan White Care Act at the 1995 level through the year 2000.
- Voted to prevent funding of seminars that "accept homosexuality as a legitimate lifestyle."
- Voted to cut off funding for schools that teach tolerance of homosexuality.

- Voted to require parental consent before children can receive condoms.
- Voted to codify HHS policy that prohibits immigration of HIV+ individuals.
- Opposes lifting of the Military Ban.
- Opposes outlawing discrimination on the Basis of sexual orientation.
- Returned a campaign contribution from the Log Cabin Club, a group of gay and lesbian Republicans.

The Clinton Record:

- Supported the policy of "Don't Ask, Don't Tell", which basically rewrote the existing military ban in law.

- Clinton has been the only President who has appointed openly gay and lesbian people to government positions, including Roberta Achtenberg as an Assistant Secretary of Housing and Deborah Batts as a Federal Judge.
- Under the Clinton Administration, every federal agency now has a non-discrimination policy that includes sexual orientation.
- Clinton issued an executive order removing sexual orientation as a barrier to receiving security clearances.
- Clinton endorsed the Employment Non-Discrimination Act, which would prohibit discrimination on the basis of sexual orientation in employment.
- Clinton issued a strong statement condemning anti-gay ballot initiatives, but failed to allow the Justice Department to file a brief before the Supreme Court urging the Court to find Colorado's Amendment 2 unconstitutional.
- Clinton has met with leaders of the gay and lesbian community.
- Clinton has increased federal funding for AIDS programs and has held an AIDS conference at the White House.
- Has formulated a re-election plan that includes gay and lesbian voters.

Looking Ahead to 1996:

Will the gay and lesbian community again support Bill Clinton? Should we? We only have to compare his record with that of Bob Dole. The choice is clear. President Clinton has been the most pro-gay and lesbian president ever. He may have disappointed our community on the military ban issue, but he has supported us in so many other areas. Re-electing President Clinton is vital to the gay and lesbian community's interests. Over the next several months, we must register gay men and lesbians to vote and we must be active in his campaign.

For information on the records and positions of candidates for State Row Offices, Congress and State Representative be to sure to read the Voters' Guide published by the League of Gay and Lesbian Voters.

(Steve Black is an openly gay attorney with an office in Bethlehem, he also serves as Vice Chair of the PA League of Gay and Lesbian Voters.)

DRAG QUEEN SHEILA PICKS OUT BASKETS FOR EASTER....

Horrorscoops by Evil Esther

AQUARIUS
Jan. 20-Feb.18

What did you say? I didn't hear you...was that a catty remark? Well, you better be careful about where you "spout off", the walls have ears and that offhanded remark may come back to haunt you. Know who your friends are, and guard against speaking before you think.

PISCES
Feb.19-March 20

April Fool's tricks aren't the only things that you have on your mind this month. Just remember that what goes around comes around, and look before you leap into anything this month. Caution must be exercised when dealing with family and work relationships toward the end of the month.

ARIES
March 21-April 19

Excellent! That recent boost of energy has made you a new person, and it shows! Take the "bull" by the horns and ride, baby, ride. Opportunities for adventure present themselves this month, and that "new you" shouldn't hesitate to try them. Scorpio plays secret role.

TAURUS
April 20-May 20

Why have you been a stranger? You need to get out more, people are wondering if you ran away to that tropical island you talk about. Let your friends know you are still alive, you'll thank me later! Solitude is nice, in small doses, but there is no substitute for the love of friends.

GEMINI
May 21-June 20

Don't think you are out of the woods yet...there is another forest waiting after this clearing, and it is deep and hard to navigate. Trip away this month will help you find the path, but your apathy may well keep you from going down it. Do you want that to happen? Focus on you, and who you can be.

CANCER
June 21-July 22

Long journey ends soon. You have made it! Now your future can begin. You have the tools, and you have the knowledge, so go out and use them! Family and friends are very proud of your recent accomplishment, bask in the glow! A much needed pat on the back for you, my friend.

LEO
July 23-Aug.22

Do you know how much you are appreciated by that goat in your life? And do you know how much you have touched her life? Your ability to see things clearly has opened eyes and doors. Your passion for things you are involved with will make a difference, don't let small frustrations stop you.

VIRGO
Aug.23-Sept.22

Sleeping with the enemy is NOT a good idea. You are not ready for the complicated mess that would ensue. Caution, red flag, DANGER! What seems a quick fix is not even close, and you don't even know the half of it. Maybe staying close to home this month is a good idea, it just might save your love life!

LIBRA
Sept.23-Oct.22

Nature plays important role in your health. Take some time to appreciate it in its many forms. Go for that walk you've been promising yourself, and take pictures with your mind. They will serve to relax you at work, something you desperately need.

SCORPIO
Oct.23-Nov.21

That person you've been eyeing is too young! You need someone who acts more their age. Didn't you stop baby-sitting after you turned 15? You deserve better (don't we all?), and that person is right under your nose. Have you looked around lately? All is not what it seems.

SAGITTARIUS
Nov.22-Dec.21

Water doesn't flow in the direction you need it to this month. Don't worry, though, at least it is flowing! Moon position highlights passion for money, fun. Libra native will surprise you with a gift, don't forget to say "thank you". Return the favor, and your gift will be even better next time.

CAPRICORN
Dec.22-Jan.19

Ups and Downs for you this month. Keep your wits about you, don't cave in. Things are going to change, maybe not for the better, you need all the strength you can muster to get through it. Stay close to your true nature and you will find that you were right all along. Hidden trails are revealed about HIM, do you really know him at all?
